that there were parts of his amendment that I thought were worthy of merit independent from the entire amendment. What my amendment is proposing to you are those parts of that amendment that I think do have merit and do need to be considered and I believe that this amendment does offer us a choice or at least brings us down to a position whereby we can make a philosophical decision as to exactly what we feel about gambling, and more specifically, video lottery devices in the State of Nebraska. I have had passed out, and it came out before lunch, a brief synopsis of what my amendment does do. I hope that you have had a chance to look at it. I don't want to belabor the point too much but I will tell you the basic positions in this set of amendments, and the amendments themselves are quite lengthy. What I am proposing is that we set up a commission, and I believe the commission is called the Electronic Lottery Commission and that commission will have all the powers of a full-blown commission to regulate, license, revoke licenses, audit, supervise, and carry out the provisions of the Electronic Video Lottery Act which this amendment also establishes. The major things that it does besides setting up a full-blown commission to control and supervise and regulate this activity of video lottery machines, I am asking some specific things be done. One, that the voters of the jurisdiction involved, whether it be a city or a county, they must take a vote and that vote will require them to vote on electronic video lotteries. Regardless of whether they have taken a vote before to have a lottery, this is going to have to have a new vote for electronic video lotteries and, two, that we put this commission in place. And until both of these things happen, the commission is put in place with rules and regulations, with licensing procedures, and until the jurisdiction, whether it be a city or a county, has a vote and the voters approve the electronic video lotteries, all electronic video lottery machines right now that are operating in our state will be unplugged. That means they will cease to operate until these two things happen. When it does happen and if it does happen, then the voting jurisdiction, that city or county, will be allowed to have some video lottery machines and the amendment set out some specific controls and limitations on those. The major ones of those are they will not be allowed
